

PRESENTED BY THE ASIAN AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION

WE BELONG

An exploration of WWII Japanese American incarceration in the wake of exclusionary U.S. policies today

May 25 • Saturday • 11 AM to 3 PM •
100 Montgomery Street, The Presidio,
San Francisco, CA 94129

Join us for a special guided tour of the "Then They Came for Me" exhibition, examining WWII Japanese American incarceration's important parallels to modern issues involving civil rights and immigrant communities. Leading this tour is Donald K. Tamaki, partner at Minami Tamaki LLP and a member of the pro bono team that reopened the landmark Korematsu v. United States case. He will be joined by current AABA president, Charles Jung, for opening remarks and discussion. Light refreshments will be served.
